

Baby Palooza

Emerging and Early Literacy Sources

Center for Early Literacy Learning (CELL) is a research-to-practice technical assistance center funded by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs, Research to Practice Division.

<http://www.earlyliteracylearning.org/>

Family Reading Partnership is a non-profit coalition of individuals, businesses, schools, libraries and other organizations that seek to promote early literacy.

<http://www.familyreading.org/index.htm>

NYS Family Resources - the Council on Children has compiled a list of up to date resources, generally accepted by the professional field and useful both to families raising children before birth to adolescence and to the professionals that support them.

<http://www.nysfamilyresources.org/>

Born Learning is a partnership between the United Way of America, the Ad Council, Civitas and the Families and Work Institute. This public engagement campaign helps parents, caregivers and communities create quality early learning opportunities for young children.

<http://www.bornlearning.org/>

<http://www.bornlearning.org/default.aspx?id=89> (Español)

Reach Out and Read is a nonprofit organization that promotes early literacy and school readiness in pediatric exam rooms nationwide by giving new books to children and advice to parents about the importance of reading aloud. ROR seeks to develop critical early reading skills in children, beginning at 6 months of age.

<http://www.reachoutandread.org/>

U.S. Department of Education : Helping Your Child Become a Reader

This includes tips for parents and caregivers, as well as activities for children from infancy through age 6.

<http://www2.ed.gov/parents/academic/help/reader/index.html>

<http://www2.ed.gov/espanol/parents/academic/lector/index.html> (Español)

On request, this publication is available in alternate formats. For more information, please contact the Department's Alternative Format Center at (202) 260-9895 or (202) 205-0818.

New York Parenting Education Partnership is a network of colleagues from across NY, working together to promote, provide and improve parenting education.

<http://www.parentingeducationpartnership.org/>

GUILDERLAND PUBLIC LIBRARY

2228 Western Avenue • Guilderland, New York 12084
518.456.2400 • www.guilpl.org • info@guilpl.org